McGILL WILL STRUGGLE IN HARD FIGHT

At Mount Royal Arena This Evening.

MEET NATIONALS.

French Canadians Have Strong Team and Game Will Be Gruelling.

To-night in the Mount Royal Arena there will be staged what promises to be one of the most interesting and, from the Red and White standpoint, most important games of hockey to be played in the City League this year. This is the encounter between the McGill and National teams.

The first game of the evening, that between Loyola and Shamrocks, will begin at eight o'clock, and should provide some fast hockey. The young collegians have always been strong contenders for the first place in the City League, and those who know predict that they will be in the play-off for the championship this season. To date, they have won one game and have been defeated once. This also applies to their opponents of to-night who are expected to trot out a strong sextette which will keep going till the final bell. The result of this game and the one following will break up the three-cornered tie which now exists between McGill and the two teams mentioned above.

By far the most interesting encounter from the McGill point of view is that which will begin at 9.30, between the University sextette and the French-Canadians. Nationals have so far won both games in which they took part, while the Red and White have suffered defeat only once, that being the first game which took place against M.A.A. during the Christmas vacation. Owing to many of the players having gone home for the holidays, the McGill team was partly composed of spares and other men who had never worked out together. In their second game, against St. Ann's, the Red and White furnished a surprise by putting up one of the best exhibitions of combination play which has been seen in a local rink for a long time. They romped home winners by a score of ten to two.

The National team is largely composed of stars from last year's Montreal League, and contains men who have played against McGill in past years while wearing the University of Montreal colors. Chief among these is Dick Laurendeau, a former star of the City League, who intends again to make his presence keenly felt by the rival clubs. Laurendeau in past years led the City League in scoring, and his exhibition this year shows that he will again be well up in the list.

Imposing Mass of Business Transacted at Large Meeting.

A grant of $25 was voted from Undergrad. funds to the Polish Relief Fund, for which a campaign is being carried on throughout the University this week.

It was moved, seconded and carried that the Physical Education students be allowed the use of the R.V.C. Common Room during the day, and subject to the same rules as apply to all members of the Undergraduate Society, this arrangement to continue for the remainder of this session only.

VIOLETS IN SCIENCE AND COMM. BLOOM!

Urgent Appeal to Juniors to Wake Up.

THE ANNUAL

Must Have Photographs of Modest Lads Before the End of Next Week.

Whether or not the men in Science and Commerce are of a bashful or demure nature is a current subject of discussion these days in the basement of the Union. The executive of the Yearbook intimated Monday morning that the Juniors in the above faculties are requested to get in touch with Notman's Studio without delay to arrange for their sittings. Lists are now in the hands of the photographic manager, and as the men have their photos taken, their names are to be crossed off the list. As yet, the list is marvellously intact: the men of the class of '22 are apparently not in line for personal publicity. The executive beg to acknowledge this reticence, but at the same time point out that the Yearbook is a Junior publication—and it is only by the total and sincere co-operation of all the men and women in the year that the initial preparations for a better Junior publication can be run off smoothly.

Present plans are for all men of Science and Commerce to make an appointment with the studio during the balance of this week and up to the end of next. As there are probably two hundred and fifty men to be snapped in these two faculties alone, it is highly advisable that those desirous of getting a convenient hour for their sitting lose no further time. During the week of January 23rd, sittings will be arranged for by the other members of the Junior Year, including R.V.C., Arts, Meds., and Dentistry. The photographs are being taken in this order, and this order must be strictly adhered to, as Juniors of each respective faculty will be grouped together in a new arrangement, and all the individual pictures of the members of any one Junior Year will be rushed to the engraver as soon as the studio advise the executive that the class is complete. Any delay, therefore, on the part of an individual member will retard the progress of the Yearbook and be greatly detrimental to its eventual success.

To Club Secretaries.

As has been the custom in the past Annuals, the Yearbook executive plan to publish a representative picture of every organization in the University. The Yearbook is a McGill publication—it is financed by the Junior Year, but is otherwise all-McGill. No element of college-life will be left out unless the club members or its executive neglect to give their co-operation. To make it all-McGill, it must give space to every aspect of McGill activity. This is what the editors intend to make it, and this is what it is going to be, but the club secretaries must necessarily meet the Yearbook half-way, and see to it that their club photo is taken and that their club write-up, when

GRADUATES OF ARTS '20 GIVE PRIZE

For Essay in Class of Arts '21.

MET YESTERDAY.

Reunion of Class Members in Union Yesterday Afternoon.

Many were the pathetic scenes witnessed at the reunion meeting of Arts '20, which was held in the Union yesterday evening at 4.30. About a score of B.A.'s and B.Sc.'s turned out to meet the friends of four long and weary years with whom they had not come in contact for twelve lean months.

When order was restored, and when the excitement of the first few moments was over, the chairman, N. E. Peterson, called the meeting to order and proceeded to outline the business of the day. He first mentioned that the class, before they had disbanded, had decided to collect fifty dollars, which would be laid aside for a prize for the class of Arts '21. This prize was to be given to the man who wrote the best paper on any subject decided upon by the Faculty.

To date only fifteen dollars have been collected for this purpose, as the class treasurer, E. Martin, has found it extremely difficult to meet all the members of the class. Now, however, that the class is reorganized, it is certain that the amount aimed at will soon be collected. Besides this, money is needed to have the graduation picture framed.

In order to make the class reunion complete it was decided that some sort of social function be held. Various plans were put forward, including a series of plays and a formal dance to be held in the Union. As the class has graduated it enjoys the right of deciding upon and organizing its own social functions. Finally E. A. Center, J. L. O'Brien and D. Taylor were appointed as a committee to consider the feasibility of holding a formal dance. They are to report at the next meeting.

The permanent secretary, N. E. Peterson, announced that he is at present collecting data regarding the present whereabouts of out-of-town members of the class. He hopes to have his list completed soon, and expects to have it published in the "Graduate News."

The permanent graduate officers will be elected at the next meeting, which will be held next Wednesday, Jan. 19th, in the Union. It is expected that at this second meeting the attendance will greatly outnumber that of yesterday. Owing to the short notice given of the first meeting many were unable to attend, but all signified their intention of making the graduate organization a great success.

NEW SCHOLARSHIP WILL BE AWARDED

Cooper Funds Will Provide Extra Money in Medicine.

Various announcements have been made of late regarding a scholarship to be awarded in the Faculty of Medicine. The "Daily" has succeeded in obtaining full and authentic information about this and are publishing all the facts which are at present known.

For several years past there has been a fund at the University, known as the Jas. Cooper fund, the purpose of which was to stimulate an interest in research in the Faculty of Medicine. This year the committee who are charged with handling the fund find that they have at their disposal an extra sum of money totalling about one thousand dollars. They have decided that this money shall be used for the same purpose, and have made announcements in accord with this. The award will take the form of the "Cooper Scholarship."

The scholarship can be awarded to any student or worker in any of the departments of Medicine, and can be held for one year. Should it be awarded to a student, he will have to suspend his medical studies for the duration of the time he is enjoying the privilege of the scholarship. In the application for the award, it should be stated in which department the applicant wishes to work. No examination will be held to determine the successful student, but all applicants

MEDICAL RESEARCH

It is indisputable that McGill's chief claim to fame is as a Medical school. While the other Faculties of our University are well and favorably known within a radius of many miles, yet to some mention of "McGill" brings to mind no other picture than that of one of the best seats of Medicine and Surgery in the country.

To some of us it has appeared in past years as if the reputation enjoyed by our Alma Mater was somewhat undeserved, but those of us who have been following the post-bellum reorganization which the University has undergone and is undergoing are beginning to sit back and watch with great satisfaction the improvements and innovations which are rapidly making themselves felt within the walls of McGill.

New courses are being inaugurated, old courses are being remodelled all to the advantage of the students and to the further glory of the University. To the staffs which lacked little in quality but much in quantity new men of great teaching ability and greater learning, have been added and the effects have at once become apparent.

But there is still one department in which the Medical Faculty of McGill is lacking, and that is in its facility and opportunities for post-graduate study, and for researches in the various branches which go to make up the science of Medicine. Owing to the lack of space and to the small teaching staffs there has been but little research work done in this University except in the department of chemistry and to a lesser extent in that of Physics. Now, however, that the recent drive for funds has proved successful and that sufficient money is placed to the credit of McGill, it is to be hoped that the other departments of the Medical faculty will be able to offer, to those who desire to take advantage of it, the opportunity of carrying out researches and of taking advanced courses in the profession which they have chosen as their life work.

A great many of the Medical students are already graduates in Arts of recognized schools, and many of these would no doubt welcome an opportunity whereby they might at the same time enlarge their knowledge of medicine and work for the higher degree of M.A. or M.Sc.

That this state will soon be reached we feel confident. Already the announcement has been made that contracts have been drawn up for the erection of new buildings for the departments of Physiology, Biological Chemistry and Psychiatry in accord with the condition on which the University received one million dollars from the Rockefeller Foundation. These new structures will relieve the crowding which is at present proving a great disadvantage, and will allow of the greater laboratory facilities which are so greatly needed.

With the improved conditions, which will follow the increase in space and in teaching staffs, made possible by the recent contributions to the College, will surely come a greater interest in post-graduate study. It is sincerely to be hoped that the Governors of the University and the faculties will respond to this interest by offering the opportunities which many will seek and which will redound to the further glory of the Medical Faculty of McGill.

THE LINCOLN WEDGE.

The iron wedge which Abraham Lincoln used to split the rails, that played such an important part in his first presidential campaign, has been presented recently to the United States National Museum in Washington by Henry W. Allen, of California. The wedge was found in 1885 in a house in New Salem, Illinois, which was occupied at one time by Mentor Graham, Lincoln's instructor in surveying.

The initials, "A. L." cut in the surface of the wedge recall a reminiscence told by John Q. Spears. He says: "I distinctly recollect an occasion when I was in the blacksmith shop of one Joshua Miller of the village of New Salem aforesaid, when Mr. Lincoln came into said blacksmith shop, and after some conversation asked Mr. Miller to cut his (Lincoln's) initials in an iron wedge which he, Lincoln, then held in his hand, to which Mr. Miller replied that he could not do it, as he was no scholar. Thereupon Mr. Lincoln said to Miller: 'Let me have your hammer and cold chisel and I will cut them myself.' Thereupon the aforesaid Miller gave to Mr. Lincoln the cold chisel and hammer, and I stood by and saw Mr. Lincoln, with said hammer and cold chisel, cut and make the letters 'A. L.' upon said iron wedge."

LITERARY IRONY.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,—
As an adherent of the Church of Rome in good standing, I wish to commend Mr. H. P. Foran's attitude on the ham sandwich question.

In recent weeks I have noticed a half-starved look about McGill R.C.'s. Their faces give evidence of a lack of proper nourishment. This puzzled me greatly as these students apparently had sufficient money to buy strength-giving, if plain, food. However, upon reading Mr. Foran's letter in this morning's "Daily," a great light broke. I might almost say, burst, upon me.

Do you not think, Sir, that it is time to call a halt, a cessation, or even a stop to this over abundance of ham sandwiches at the Union Dances? If, as your correspondent suggests, the committee insists upon providing ham sandwiches, let us also have other varieties. Why not make up a dainty little Lake Shark sandwich served with butter sauce. The butter sauce is essential and I always insist upon it in restaurants. In fact Lake Shark without butter sauce falls flat upon my sensitive palate. Whether the necessity of the butter sauce is due to the limp waters in which this kind of shark has its habitat, I cannot say. Suffice it to remark that the butter sauce is the sine qua non of Lake Shark.

For those who are not partial to this kind of sandwich, and who, by reason of their religion are barred from the succulent ham, I would suggest a delicate little Canal Perch sandwich, cut diagonally. This sandwich, I am told is immensely popular at the University of Petrograd. In fact Russian students may be seen devouring them before, and even after lectures.

I am sure that these sandwiches, in addition to the ice cream and cake would constitute quite a tasty supper. Some epicures have informed me that by removing the portion of Lake Shark referred to above, from its fatiguing resting place, and mixing it with the ice cream, a gustatory effect far excellence can be obtained. Trusting that these well meant suggestions will be acted upon.

"HAM AND."

ARCAND FACES COURT AGAIN

Held For Trial in a Couple of Weeks.

Yesterday afternoon at 2.30, Arcand, the man arrested the other day on a charge of having stolen numerous overcoats from public buildings around the University, came up for preliminary enquete. Witnesses appeared to testify as to their ownership of several of the numerous coats produced in court, amongst them being Professor Traquair, G. B. Wilson (an employee of the Union), "Sam" Taylor of the Museum, and an R. C. priest.

Arcand did not deny the charge preferred against him, nor did he make any admissions or statements. Prof. Traquair, who had his coat stolen, gave evidence, proving the ownership of the coat produced. The Roman Catholic priest testified that three of the coats produced were stolen from his premises.

The prisoner was held for trial at the next session of the Court of King's Bench, which will be convened in a week or two, and the witnesses in the case will in all probability be called upon to give evidence in the case.

called for, is sent in promptly for publication.

It is highly advisable that all clubs who can do so should communicate with the Yearbook in the immediate future, and for this purpose the "Daily" is giving the Yearbook the use of the mail-box outside the phone-booth in the Union. Will all secretaries, wherever it is possible, please intimate to the Yearbook by means of this mail-box some convenient time during the next two weeks that would be suitable for the photo to be taken. The Yearbook will arrange with the studio, and will publish in these columns a schedule for the clubs to follow out. The Yearbook would appreciate it if any clubs already photographed this year would advise them, and would arrange to let them have a print of the picture at the earliest possible moment.

GREATLY POPULAR.

Subjects Treated — General Literature, Shakespeare, English Composition.

As an illustration of the eagerness of the University authorities to co-operate with the community in every possible way, the "Daily" is advised of a very popular course of lectures now being delivered here to the teachers of the city schools on English Literature. For quite some time in the past there has been considerable expression of opinion on the part of school-teachers that they be given the opportunity of attending a University Series on Literature. Responsive to their suggestion, the authorities outlined a course such as was desired, and the popularity of the course up to the present time has been very gratifying to the University. At the first enrollment, eighty registered for the lectures; at the last lecture, one hundred and fifty were present. Present advice goes to indicate that another increased attendance will be seen at the next lecture.

There are two lectures each week, following a programme of three sections:

(a) General Literature.
(b) Shakespeare.
(c) English Composition.

Dr. Macmillan is lecturing on the first two courses, and Mr. Latham the third.

The McGill team has been practising continually of late, and is in fine condition. They have been perfecting the deadly weapon of combination play and expect to use it to great advantage to-night. Cully, last year's star defence man, is again in uniform, and has been getting into condition during the last few days. With Goddard, the former Ottawa City League star, he should form a stone wall defence.

Timmins will again start in goals, and is expected to put in a good night's work. It is possible that Stenson, the star goaler of last year's intermediates, and a former Sherbrooke player, will be given a turn in the nets, and his work will be watched with interest.

The regular forwards — Bohan, Dineen and Gallery — will feature in the line-up to-night. These three men have all played City League hockey for several years and are in the pink of condition at the opening of this year's schedule. They form an accurate shooting, good checking, clever forward line, and this, together with the combination play which they have been perfecting, should help the Red and White to pile up an early and substantial score.

"Boo" Anderson, who is now almost completely recovered from his recent operation, will not be out to-night, but it is expected that he will soon be turning out to the games. To-night's spars will be Lyall, Kelly and Davis.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of McGill supporters, as the game will give an accurate idea of the chances which the Red and White have of winning either the City League or the Intercollegiate honors this year. Both contests to-night should be fast and well worth witnessing, and the changes in the league's standing which will follow them will be of the greatest importance. If McGill wish to feature in the play-off, they must win most of the remaining games in order to finish the regular schedule in one of the four leading places.

The standard which has been set in the City League during the past few years is uncommonly high, and hockey on a par with the professional game of to-day is played in the amateur league. No one will lament having gone to the matches to-night even if they have to neglect a little important work to do so.

cations will be carefully considered by the committee in charge of the fund, and their decision will be made on the ability and past showing of the applicants.

The privilege of holding the scholarship will begin immediately, and work can be started at once. No information is available as to whether the scholarship will be renewed, and if it will, on what conditions, but at present those in charge are working on the assumption that it will terminate with one year's work.

EXPECT MUCH OF DRAMATIC FEAT AT R.V.C.

Professorate and Members of Alumnae to Perform.

CLASSICAL SKITS.

Distinguished Audience Will Grace Charity Performance.

To-night the Convocation Hall of the Royal Victoria College will be the scene of a most interesting and novel form of dramatic venture, when the three "Diminutive Dramas," by Maurice Baring and a French Playlet will be presented by the Alumnae Society.

For many days past the various members of the professorate and of the Alumnae Society who are taking part in the performance have been at work with praiseworthy assiduity in order that the presentation may be as perfect as is humanly possible, and it is credibly believed that this ambitious aim may well be realized.

Perhaps a few words might not come amiss on the subject of the playlets themselves. The "Diminutive Dramas" of Maurice Baring are very cleverly constructed skits on the heroes of the classical world. Agamemnon and the "crafty" Ulysses. Penelope and Clytemnestra discuss the foibles of the modern world from the point of view of the ancients, and attired in the graceful draperies of ancient Greece declaim after the fashion of the Iliad and the Odyssey.

The cast that has been chosen to give a faithful portrayal of these difficult roles is in itself an imposing one, including as it does no less than two heads of departments in the Faculty of Arts. Professor S. B. Slack and Professor Maclean of the Department of Classics will also no doubt add a touch of realism to the ensemble, as they have been for many years on terms of the utmost familiarity with the characters of classical mythology that they are to portray.

Professor Ramsay Traquair of the Department of Architecture has complete charge of the costuming, which in a representation like to-night's is, of course, of vital importance. Professor Traquair is, however, an authority on the subject of classic dress, and the audience may rest assured that the costuming will combine all the essentials of meticulous detail and artistic effect.

The audience at to-night's performance promises to be an unusually distinguished one in keeping with the importance of the presentation itself. Sir Arthur Currie will be present, and it is generally believed that a very large number of the professorate will be in attendance to impart a wave of silent, psychic encouragement to their fellows across the footlights.

The entire proceeds will be devoted to the University Settlement and certain other equally deserving interests of the Alumnae Society. Fortunately for the dilatory there are still a few tickets on hand. These may be purchased for the absurdly low price of one dollar ($1.00) from any member of the Alumnae Society or from the following: The Secretary of the Royal Victoria College; Miss Muriel Wilson, 231 Elm Avenue; Miss Mabel Brittain, 9 Tower Avenue; Miss May Idler, 863 University street (cor. Pine), as well as at the McGill Union.

R.V.C. '21.

A meeting of R.V.C. '21 will be held at one o'clock to-day in the Common Room. Very important business is to be discussed, so every girl is urged to attend.

A stern front will turn aside misfortunes that assail the weak.

Two McGill Graduates in New Cabinet — C. O. T. C. is Organized — Queens is Fooled — Golf Revived — Sir Peterson Again Honored — Students in Court House — Capt. Eve Forms Company — The Theatre Night.

October Eleventh.
1911.—Out of the fourteen ministers chosen by Premier Borden to represent Canada's new cabinet, ten were graduates of Canadian Universities and two of McGill. The Hon. J. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, was a professor in the McGill Law Faculty as well as a graduate, while the Hon. F. D. Monk, Minister of Public Works, always took a great deal of interest in matters national and Imperial.
A famous McGill graduate and football hero, Geddes Zimmerman, perished in the Colorado while on his way to Lake City. At an altitude of 13,000 feet he was overtaken by a blizzard. His body was found in a ravine.
1912.—A very enthusiastic meeting marked the start of a new organization — the C.O.T.C. A large audience listened to a patriotic appeal from Colonel Crowe, as a result of which 52 men enrolled in the Canadian Officers' Training Corps.
The latest news of graduates reported Dr. John Harrison, B.A., M.D., C.M., to be in charge of an important medical post in the Straits Settlements.
1913.—The Queen's Football Club was fooled beautifully when someone informed them that the McGill campus was flooded and that it could not be used for the football game. The club suggested that new grounds be procured.
1916.—Ambulance man treated wounded during a terrible slaughter on the war front. A thousand dangers were braved by the stretcher-bearers, who worked the whole time in a sea of mud. Letters published in the "Daily" told of some of the experiences of Ptes. Harry Hart and Howard Nicols.
1917.—Registration figures again showed a big decrease in the Faculties of Arts and Applied Science. In the Faculty of Medicine, the number of students was 401 as compared with the 350 of the former year.
1919.—Golf was revived. It was originally organized by Sir William Peterson and Dr. Rutman. The project was to stage games between the staff and the students.
October Twelfth.
1911.—The latest honor for Principal Peterson was his election to the chairmanship of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Public Instruction for the Province of Quebec.
At an ordinary football practice, Joe Hall, a freshman, received a fractured arm that put him out of the game for three weeks. But this was by no means all. The following is the report about the sick list: "Dan's thumb is on the mend. Alan's head is O.K. Jimmy's knee is again on the job, but he will need to be careful. George Murray has fully recovered from the local injuries he recently sustained. Mike Turnbull will probably be on the line-up Saturday."
McGill was well represented at a festival given by the University of Vermont, in Prof. Leacock and Prof. Dale. Many notable tributes were paid to McGill during the course of the speeches.
1912.—Police of the city precipitated a nasty disturbance. Without sounding a bell, a patrol dashed headlong into a defenceless crowd of students; several were hurt and two had to be removed to the hospital. The report in the "Daily" reads: "This inhuman action on the part of the police shows up well the spirit they possess when engaged in any dealings with McGill students."
1915.—Captain A. S. Eve, Professor of Physics of McGill, ably formed one of the three University companies that were sent to the front. He was reported organizing a fourth company. He also wrote a short history of the University Companies and their work while in Montreal.
"The Daily Illini," the official organ of the students of the University of Illinois, praised McGill and Toronto for the true fortitude they displayed both at home and on the battlefields of France. Quotes the "Illini": "It is a strong race of young men which can cheerfully adjust itself to the most unfortunate circumstances and give up without misgiving experiences dearest to the heart of a collegian."
1916.—The second of Dr. C. W. Colby's lectures was delivered at the Royal Victoria College on the "Raison d'Etre" of the Triple Entente.
McGill played Rugby with the sailors of H.M.S. Carnarvon for the benefit of the Red Cross Society.
October Thirteenth.
1913.—McGill downed Queen's in a hotly contested game. The Presbyterian athletes worked like Trojans but were completely overwhelmed. The score was 42 to 2.
The games between the McGill and R.M.C. English Rugby Teams ended in a draw, and so tied the two for the Intercollegiate championship.
1914.—Brown, one of the huskiest linemen on the McGill football squad, did great execution in the Varsity game. The local back division played without a fumble. The final score of 25 to 1 was a good indication of the merits of the play.
Sutherland, Heron, Smelzer, McDermott and Farthy were among the many competitors who showed up exceedingly well at the Freshman-Sophomore athletic meet.
Major A. Campbell Geddes was forced to leave the work of organizing the McGill University Battalion and also his duties as Commanding Officer of the McGill O.T.C., owing to his having to report for duty to the War Office in England. Dr. Geddes was Professor of Anatomy at McGill and had had eighteen years of military service.
1915.—There was a humorous side to things, even in the trenches, and many were the letters from the front that contained stories of such a nature.
Sapper A. B. Rutherford, serving with the Engineers at the front, wrote of life with the 2nd Signal Company.
1916.—No. 3 General Hospital was a marvel of efficiency. Sir Douglas Haig himself praised the work of the McGill Hospital at Boulogne.
Fifty members of the class of Arts '17 were reported with the King's forces.
1919.—The Sophomores won the Freshman-Sophomore Track Meet by a score of 83 to 32. W. R. Kennedy secured the aggregate honors, while J. D. King came second.
Varsity won an easy victory over Queen's, defeating her by a score of 41 to 3.
October Fourteenth.
1911.—The McGill Undergraduate theatre night was the greatest success on record. Three hundred and twenty-five undergraduates made a procession that was both enthusiastic and orderly. The Hon. Don MacMaster was a guest at His Majesty's Theatre.
1912.—McGill defeated Queen's in football on a muddy field by a score of 15 to 5.
The outcome of the unfortunate disturbance with the police was that five McGill men were tried "for shouting on the streets and creating a disturbance." Three men pleaded not guilty, and they were remanded until the 18th; the others were fined twenty-five dollars and ten dollars respectively. The headline in the "Daily" reads: "The Wheels of Justice Turn and Grind Twenty-five Dollars out of One Man and Ten from the Other."
1913.—McGill charity workers were offered opportunities. The work at the University Settlement was to be inaugurated by a social service supper that was to be held in the Strathcona Hall.
1914.—Mr. Paul Morin was chosen as Honorary President of the Cercle Francais, and gave an interesting speech on the war. In his opening sentences he paid an eloquent tribute to his predecessor, M. Du Roure, who had left his Chair to take his place on the firing line.
Madame Van der Velde, wife of one of the Belgian Ministers of State, and Socialist leader of international reputation, spoke in the Convocation Hall of the Royal Victoria College on "The Case of Belgium in the Present War." Through her, Belgium made an appeal for justice, for the honor of civilization and of humanity. The "Daily" wrote: "We owe her our pity and our succour as an earnest of payment of a debt which can never be fully discharged."
1915.—A meeting of the Literary and Debating Society was held in the Union, and it decided to begin activities as soon as possible.
1916.—Up to this time, 113 McGill men had sacrificed their lives in the Great War. Graduates, post graduates and undergraduates were included in the list of students who fell in every part of Europe.
Acting Dean Blackader, Dr. Martin and Dr. Scane were among the speakers at the first meeting of the Med. Undergraduate Society.
1919.—Entries for the Track Meet were as yet few. The University declared a special holiday on account of the event.
The Cercle Francais planned a big activity for the session. Dr. Villard, honorary president of the club, and Professor Du Roure promised to lend their support.
When you buy, mention the "Daily".

BASEBALL FINAL WILL BE PLAYED

Friday, 6 p.m., in the Montreal High School Gym.

The finals of the Inter-Faculty Indoor Baseball League will be held in the High School Gymnasium on Friday, at 6 p.m., when Law '21 will meet Commerce '23 for the Inter-Faculty championship.
In view of the various games the two teams have played before, there is nothing to doubt as to the excitement which will take place during the game. Both teams contain good players, who will do their utmost to win for their faculty. Both teams possess excellent batteries, and heavy hitters, and with these facts in view, they should furnish a hard battle to the spectators.
The Commerce team will most likely be picked from the following:
Gauthier
Ware
Burton
Dickle
Magid
Campbell
Clark
Ferminger
McCullough
Connor
B. S. Kornberg
One of the best men in the above-mentioned team is B. S. Kornberg, who persistently executed miraculous plays in every game in which the Commerce team participated. He is a wonder at making home runs, and with him in the line-up, the Commerce men have nothing to fear. Another good man is Dickle, who is a marvel in the left field. Gauthier and Clark make a good pair in the infield.
The Law team also have equally good players, and there is no doubt but they are a good match for the Commerce men. One thing, however, is certain, and that is that the game will be well worth seeing, and should be well attended.

RIFLE CLUB TO MEET IN HALL

Treasurer Will Refund Transportation to Members.

To-day, at 5.15 p.m., in Strathcona Hall, the McGill Rifle Club will hold the annual meeting to elect officers and receive the report of the executive. The treasurer has a satisfactory report to offer, one fact of interest being the recent decision of the executive to reimburse all paid-up members to the extent of fifty cents to cover transportation to and from the ranges. This should draw a good quorum, as all those who are absent will be unable to participate, and the balance unrefunded will be turned over to the new executive to start the next year with.
The Rifle Club was very successful this year in re-establishing range shooting at McGill. It was not possible to arrange for Intercollegiate competitions this year, but it will probably be possible to enter a team in the N.R.A. shoots next summer. Don't forget—5.15 p.m., in the Hall. All up, and all on time.

HUGE SUM RAISED FOR SPORTS.

Ane hundred thousand dollars has just been agreed upon by the trustees of Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., as the amount to be used exclusively for athletics. The raising of this fund has been put in the hands of a committee of 105, one member for each year of the school's existence. A. W. Thompson, of Philadelphia, is chairman.
The athletic endowment will be available for the benefit of the big Methodist Episcopal College's athletic program by the opening of the fall term of 1921.

Vardon and Ray

Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, professional golfers, are back in England from America. In four months they travelled 42,000 miles; they appeared on about 100 different courses and, it is estimated, trapped no fewer than 1700 miles in the actual playing of the game.

This they told me when I met them upon their arrival at Liverpool by the White Star liner, Celtic; but they were not the faded, overworked couple they would have me believe. As for Ray, the antithesis of Vardon in temperament, physical make-up and general outlook, the splendid workman and not the quiet, artistic golfer his companion is — he looked as he hugged the handsome cup which he had won in the open championship at Toledo, like some big schoolboy home for his long holiday. It is certain that both he and Vardon are already looking forward to such another tour as that from which they have just returned. They paid eloquent tribute to the hospitality offered to them wherever they went. They told of the enthusiasm and deep love of golf in America; the giant strides which the game has made everywhere; and as for Ray he was certain that if the American amateurs come to England next year, as they had every intention of doing, they are bound to carry off the championship. Vardon was not so emphatic in his prediction as Ray, but he was in entire agreement that the best American amateur was in every way equal to the best English amateur.

As for R. T. Jones, Jr., of Atlanta, I was assured that he was altogether wonderful, though at present he has the failings common to youthfulness; he is apt to be impetuous.
"But," say Vardon and Ray, "in a few years the likelihood is that he will be the foremost player in the United States. Already he hits the ball in a way worthy of a professional of the highest degree; and he has the confidence and the daring of a veteran. At the moment, Charles Evans, Jr., is the best amateur in America; but it will be strange if Mr. Jones is not very shortly at the top of the tree. American golf, in an amateur sense, is bound to acquire tremendous strength; not even the most conscientious professional could be more intent on doing well than the amateur. It is not just golf with the gentleman player is a craze that has made him probably the keenest golfer in the world; he is keen and determined to do well because, in golf, as in every other activity, it is his nature to be kept and so gain high proficiency."

There was much that Vardon and Ray had to say about the sharply different climatic conditions in America. However, in the circumstances, they were immensely pleased with that they accomplished. Considering that for six weeks, except for two nights, they slept in trains, and in order to engage in one match they travelled 1000 miles, they confessed that they were surprised that they had done so well — 25 matches lost out of 95. The largest crowd they appeared before was at Belmont, Massachusetts, where they played Francis Outmet, for whom golfers in England have high regard, and J. P. Guilford. There were 7000 spectators, and a line of motor cars stretched nearly three miles down the road.

Vardon and Ray saw and played against practically all the leading American professionals, and both are quite decided that W. C. Hagen, because of the immense variety of shots at his command is the best. They say of J. M. Barnes that although he is undoubtedly a fine player he has a tendency to hit the ball low; and those skimming shots, not infrequently, end disastrously — the ball will not carry the highest bunkers and loses itself in the sand.

Vardon offered an explanation of his surprising collapse in the championship at Toledo. It is this: with one round to go he held a lead of four strokes and he counted the winning of the cup as a certainty. At the next seven holes the River Inverness, which intersects the course, has to be crossed five times — not a very difficult business in normal conditions.

"But when I came to top up at the twelfth hole," said Vardon, "suddenly, and without the slightest warning, a whirlwind and tempestuous rain swept the links for 20 minutes. My position at the seventeenth hole had become so critical that although I knew it was pretty nearly impossible to carry the river in such a hurricane in two shots, I determined to chance everything. I hit the ball as hard as ever I hit a ball in my life. You can imagine my joy when I saw it had carried the water; and my mortification when I saw it strike the top of the far bank and roll back into the river! Then I knew that the championship was not to be mine. Still, I would not complain. Like Ray I have had a wonderful

INTERMEDIATE BASKETBALL AT ARMOURIES

Two Intermediate Games Played Last Night.

WIN FOR BOTH TEAMS.

Seniors Also Played Exhibition Game Against Another Royal Highlander Team.

Last evening saw three games of basketball played at the Royal Highlanders' Armoury; the first an exhibition game between the Seniors and the Highlanders, and the other two being games by "A" and "B" Intermediate teams against two more teams of Highlanders.

In the first game, the Seniors showed that they were gaining that combination and team work which is so necessary however good the players may be individually. They played a good fast game, but the shooting was at times erratic and could bear improvement. Crain and Amarone are welcome additions to the squad, and should prove valuable basket getters during the season. With a few more practices the team should be in such a condition that it need fear no opposition from its rivals.

In the next game, "B" Intermediate played a team of Highlanders and beat them by the score of 25-18. It was a fast and interesting game, especially in the second half. McGill took the lead early and kept it right till the end. At the end of the first half, in which McGill had by far the best of the game, the score was 10-4, of which Greenblatt had scored 4 points, Clark 4, and Tinkers 2. The second half showed the Highlanders pressing, and for a time were scoring faster than McGill, when the game got to a very fast and exciting pitch. At the end, however, McGill rallied, and when the whistle blew had scored 14 more points, of which Greenblatt was responsible for 7, Swartzman for 5, and Tinkers for 2.

Swartzman and Greenblatt showed to best advantage for McGill, and Locke for the Highlanders.

Teams were as follows:
McGill "B"..... Highlanders
Clark..... Forwards..... Locke
Tinkers..... Forwards..... Forrest
Greenblatt..... Centre..... Harris
Caldwell..... Guards..... Peace
Swartzman..... Guards..... Ramsay
Moore..... Spares..... Campbell
McCaw..... Spares..... Brown

McGill also emerged the winners in the third game by the larger margin of 29-14. As the score implies, it was a more one-sided affair than the previous one, and was therefore not quite so fast or strenuous.

Turpel showed excellent form, scoring 17 out of the 35 points. He was particularly accurate in his shooting, and was always found in the right place for a pass.

The Highlanders were wild in their passing, and fumbled very often, which proved a fruitful source of baskets for McGill. In the first half, 18 points, of which Turpel scored 10, Murray 4, and James and Scharfe 2 each. In the second half, Turpel scored 7, Starke 8, and Hilton and Scharfe 2 each.

The teams lined up as follows:
McGill "A"..... Highlanders
James..... Forwards..... Black
Turpel..... Forwards..... Pinney
Murray..... Centre..... Campbell
Hilton..... Guards..... Lanther
Bloomstein..... Guards..... Walker
McGill spares—Scharfe, Starke.

The result of these games is highly satisfactory, and shows that all three teams are rapidly getting into condition, and should acquit themselves very creditably in the future.

A ROYAL EXPLORER.

Prince Wilhelm of Sweden, who once paid a visit to the United States, has just set out on a second and more venturesome expedition to Central Africa. In more than one respect he is like his grandfather, King Oscar II, being a naval officer and deeply attached to his profession and the sea, and furthermore a poet of no mean talent.

This time he is bound for the frontier districts between the West African forests and the East African steppes, the country at the upper springs of the Congo and the Central African lake district.

The prince is accompanied by Count Nils Gyllenstein, who is connected with the National Museum of Natural Science in Stockholm. They first proceed to Mombasa, in British East Africa, and from there go on to Nairobi, traveling by the Uganda railway. Nairobi is on the route to Victoria Nyanza, which has become, one might almost say, a favorite starting point for modern central African expeditions. Prince Wilhelm may meet some countrymen of his, as a large Swedish mining expedition is at present working there.

Prince Wilhelm, during his further progress intends to employ motor cars, and one naturally wonders how the roads of wild Central Africa will be for motoring, but the Prince in any case hopes to get as far as Kiwi, a territory remarkable for its volcanic mountains, on the border of the Congo State, and which is almost virgin soil, as far as European exploration is concerned.

R.V.C. GAVE Y.W.C.A. A NASTY KNOCK

Defeated "Y.W." 34—11 in Basketball Joust.

BRILLIANT WORK.

Remarkably Clean Play Featured By Both Teams.

Last night the R.V.C. basketball team faced a new rival in their struggle for the honors of the game and one who demands serious consideration. Though only formed for the first time at the beginning of this season, the Y.W.C.A. already has on its team players of brilliant promise, and, given the time necessary to perfect their combination work, they will undoubtedly make the students tremble for their laurels.

Thanks to the brilliant work of the R.V.C. centres, the outcome of the match was clear from the beginning. Miss Jane Spier and Miss Dorothy Russell dashed hither and thither with bewildering speed, leaping lightly into the air to meet the ball and catching it with sure, never-bungling fingers. Miss Slack, moreover, was always ready to convert their rapid play into points for the college team.

On the other side the players showed indefatigable energy, but were handicapped by lack of practice in passing. Miss Wilton, never-failing in her free shots, and audacious in her spectacular field-shooting, proved a strong asset to the Y.W. team.

The college team showed great adaptability in following the Spalding rules, to which they are not accustomed. Adding to this fact the excitement of the play, it is surprising that there was so little line-fouling, for the match was keenly contested to the end. The members of the Y.W.C.A. team proved beyond all doubt that there is one thing in which they are not lacking—excellent sporting spirit.

The score finally stood at 34-11 in favor of R.V.C.

The line-up of the teams was as follows:

TRADE UNIONISM WAS WELL REPRESENTED AT GENERAL MEETING

(By M. ALBERT THOMAS)

London, Dec. 27.—Before I left Geneva I attended the first sitting of the Assembly of the League of Nations, and the impression I received is that it will be very difficult to strike a middle line between an assembly of diplomats and a Parliamentary assembly. If it approximates to a diplomatic assembly there is a danger that it might appear to be like a man separate from his fellows; if, on the other hand, it is too Parliamentary, it is likely to lose the dignity which should attach to the super-State. The dilemma is a real one. I think the assembly inclines rather to the Parliamentary side.

One of Biggest Problems.

The first meeting was quite promising. The great difficulty for the League is that it must itself define its functions and construct its own mechanism. So far as the International Labor Organization is concerned, this difficulty hardly existed at all, for the composition, functions, and machinery of the organization were precisely defined in the Treaty, but in the case of the League itself there was no such precision, and this constitutes one of the biggest of the problems it will have to tackle.

I have come to attend the special conference of the International Trade Union Federation, and I must remind you that my position is necessarily somewhat delicate. This meeting is thoroughly international. The organized working classes of sixteen countries are represented. So far as Europe is concerned, it is genuinely and authoritatively representative of the entire Trade Union movement. It only lacks support from the United States in order to be completely representative of all the important countries of the world.

It is very gratifying that the International Labor Office should have been invited to be present at this meeting, for it is a proof that, after some months' experience of its work, our International Labor Bureau has preserved the confidence that was reposed in it at its creation, not least by the working classes.

In Accord With Treaty.

During the first session of the Conference another justification came to my mind. I heard M. Jouhaux declare that the workers must maintain the right of combination; that they must reorganize the world on lines consistent with the rights of labor; and that they must establish co-operation between the nations. Those are exactly the principles of the Treaty.

SCIENCE '22 HOCKEYISTS MEET SOPHS.

Practices Barely Attended This Week.

KEEN RIVALRY.

First Battle of Inter-Class Seen At 5.15 on Campus.

This afternoon the Inter-Class Series will commence with a game between Science '22 and Science '23 on the Campus Rink at 5.15 p.m. The ice is in perfect condition, and both teams are in the best of condition, and have been practising hard to defend the honor of their respective classes. "Eddie" Crain has high hopes of representing Science in the coming Inter-Faculty Series with his Sophomore Stars, while Johnny King is equally determined to put the Juniors in line for the Faculty honors. There is very little to choose between the two teams, and the match will be exciting. Every member of '22 and '23 should be out to look over his team and give the odd yell.

To avoid harsh feeling, there will be a full panel of officials from a neutral faculty to handle the game, which will take place in two periods of twenty minutes each. Members of teams are reminded that a team which is not on the ice and ready to face-off by 5.30 p.m. will lose the game by default, so everyone should be on time. As there has been difficulty in obtaining goalers' outfits, team captains should make their own arrangements for to-day and tomorrow.

The attention of team managers and captains is directed to the regulations governing Class Hockey which may be seen over in the dressing-room. In marking attendance for the first time, the letter A or B will only be shown against a name if the corresponding card has been actually presented. Otherwise a mark will be placed in the column under the proper date. Men turning out with other classes than their own will see that their attendance is entered on the proper page. The attention of the Law teams is drawn to the fact that their attendance has not yet been recorded to date.

It would greatly facilitate the conduct of games if team managers would canvass their teams for men who could act as referees, time-keepers and goal judges. They should let the Class Hockey Manager know as soon as possible the names and phones of men who can take this duty, so that it can be fairly spread over the different years.

BURN GOVERNOR IN EFFIGY.

When the University of Mississippi recently placed a ban on dancing, the students showed their disapproval by burning in effigy the chairman of the university's Board of Trustees. The chairman is the present Governor of the state.

of Peace, particularly of the preamble to Part XIII of the Treaty and of the Charter of Labor in Article 427. As I listened to these statements I thought to myself that the workers in defending these things are defending the principles of the Treaty. So long, therefore, as the workers adhere to this programme, I have every right to attend such conferences. My desire and my duty is to see that Part XIII of the Treaty is carried into full effect.

Wants British Help.

If I have one wish more than another at this moment, it is that my British friends should help us by all the means in their power in this task. I may remind them that Part XIII was based on a British draft. I am aware that in some directions, political and others, we were at one time regarded with a certain amount of suspicion, but I may observe that among my collaborators in the International Organization are British representatives with the British political and administrative traditions, and that these collaborators share my conviction that it is for the good of the world that the principles laid down at Versailles should be applied without reservation.

I am satisfied that by the work we are doing we shall gain the goodwill of British industrial bodies, employers and workmen alike. I know that there is a wealth of power and idealism in the British working classes. I know also that the British employers' associations can powerfully assist us, and in the work of peace, as in the work of war, I shall do all I can to retain the unreserved good will and the unstinted assistance of the British people.

COMMERCE '23 WINS OUT IN SEMI-FINALS

Defeating Medicine by Score of 24—17.

BASKETBALL

Championship Will Be Decided Between Law and Commerce To-Morrow.

In a very fast and close game played last night in the High School Gymnasium Commerce '23 beat the Meds. in the semi-final of the Indoor Ball League. The final result of the game was always in doubt, even though the Commerce team maintained throughout the lead they made in the first inning.

As the result of a new ball being used, the fielding had to be very fast and in some stages of the game was rather loose. Neither pitcher could be seen to very good advantage, as the two teams were of the slugging variety and pounded out most of the efforts of the twirlers. Henry, of the Meds., used a good slow ball to advantage at times, and some of the Commerce batsmen looked foolish. While McCullough, the Commerce pitcher, after weakening in the fifth inning found himself and managed to stave off the attack.

Both innings featured fast snappy plays at times rather than an even grade of consistent playing. On the attack the Commerce team were a little more versatile, and ran the bases better than their opponents.

Hugh Campbell, catching for the winners, played a good game behind the bat and also hit the ball hard. In the earlier innings "Doc" Ware pulled a hair-raiser off the third base line and threw the runner out. Dickie, the tiny Commerce 1st baseman, fielded a perfect game. Gauthier, Eason and Clarke concluded a smooth working infield and one that should be hard to beat. All of these are good hitters and fast on their feet.

The "Meds." started a dying rally towards the end of the game, which flickered out leaving Commerce on top with the score of 24 to 17. On Friday afternoon Law and Commerce meet to decide who shall hold the College Championship.

PATIENCE.

(Specially for The Christian Science Monitor.)

Something of the patience and gentleness shown in taming chipmunks by Mr. Klugh and likewise humming birds by Mr. Burroughs is exemplified in the treatment of wild deer by a caretaker on Hardy's Island in British Columbia.

An Englishman visited the island with an idea of establishing a tree nursery. He bought the property. It was a beautiful piece of timberland with bays, hills and beaches. In an old house, probably left by some pioneer, he fixed up quarters for the caretaker, who happened to be a man who loved animals. He kept all hunters off the island.

In some instinctive way the deer soon learned that the island was a haven of refuge. On the mainland they were constantly pursued by the old warfare. In small groups they would plunge into the bay and swim to the island, leaving the dogs baying and the felled hunter on the edge of the beach.

Once on the island, the deer would shake themselves, pant a bit, then trot confidently to the kitchen door of the caretaker's house for something to eat. If the door was open they would walk in and help themselves. Great bucks, gentle does, delicate fawns would eat apples from his hand like tame cattle.

At first they were timid; as with the chipmunks and humming birds, confidence had to be established between friends. Now when the caretaker goes out and whistles, the deer come from all parts of the island.

Undoubtedly this lone keeper on Hardy's Island has the feeling of comradeship that Mr. Burroughs enjoyed when he met that little band of humming birds on the Muir glacier, carried by their tiny wings 8,000 miles from home.

PROPOSE AMERICAN OLYMPICS.

Dr McKenzie, who was to represent Pennsylvania at the recent convention of the National Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association in Chicago, was unable to go at the last minute and his place was filled by Dr. Wharton. As Dr. Wharton represented the chairman of the Boxing Committee of the association, he presented the report of that body, which was accepted in full. This report recommended the formation of an Intercollegiate Boxing Association, which is soon to be a reality, and will mark the most important step forward made by the sport in years. It was felt, however, that there is not time this year to complete the formation of such an association, so that the final organization will not be made until next year. A number of meets will be held under the rules recommended by the committee, and their results will be closely watched.

An important result of the Chicago meeting was the appointing of a committee which is to develop and submit a report on a proposed American Olympic Track Meet. This meet would

But when he got there the cupboard was bare,
So he swallowed a drink at the sink."

Abe was driving his Ford down St. James Street the other day, and as luck would have it he was headed the wrong way. One of Mederic's dashing blues held him up and said:
"Where you goin', sapre affaire, don't you know she's a one-way street?"
"Yah," answered Abe, entirely removing his hands from the steering gear, "and I wasn't going more as van way, was I?"

ADVICE.

To keep furniture from cracking, have no heavy-weight callers.
The best kind of cards for calling—four aces.
An excellent thing for luncheon is an appetite.
To keep eggs—lay them in a cool place. If hens do the laying, tell them the same thing.
To avoid toothache, be careful not to lay your teeth in a draught at night.

Before prohibition, a man walked into a cafe downtown, sat at a table, and wrote as follows:
"Walter, give me a Scotch High-ball."
After drinking it he wrote:
"Give me another."
Then having finished wrote again:
"Give me another."
This one being disposed of, he wrote:
"How much do I owe you?"
The waiter read it and wrote on the pad:
"You owe nothing. We Don't charge deaf and dumb people for drinks."
The man read this, glared at the waiter, and roared:
"Hell! I'm not deaf and dumb! I just came in from Toronto and was so dry I couldn't speak!"

Not a single vow:

And SHE was the farmer's COW.

LOGICAL.

The Pennsylvania Relays are the nearest approach at present to such a meet, but the new plan would be different in that no college outside of the states would be eligible to take part. The Relays hold a unique place in American sport, and it is thought that the proposed Olympic meet would in no way interfere with them. The complete report of the proceedings of the convention will be made public soon.
